Unleashing the Power of Online Collaboration Tools for TUC

On January 18, 2025, the Tarlac State University College of Computer Studies (TSU-CCS) successfully conducted an extension activity titled "Digital Bridges: Unleashing the Power of Online Collaboration Tools for TUC" at the CCS Building. This activity aimed to empower members of the Tarlac Union of Cooperatives (TUC) with essential digital skills, focusing on the effective use of modern collaboration tools to enhance communication, project management, and productivity within their organization.

This seminar was designed to help TUC strengthen its operational efficiency and adapt to the fast-evolving demands of the digital era. By equipping participants with knowledge and skills in online collaboration, the program sought to create a more interconnected and efficient cooperative environment.

The program featured two expert service providers from TSU-CCS who delivered insightful sessions: Ms. Ronilyn M. Telan shared her expertise on Google Meet and the creation of email accounts, emphasizing the importance of these tools in facilitating virtual meetings and professional communication. Mr. Jerico S. Baladhay provided an in-depth discussion on the Zoom Application, highlighting its features and practical uses for seamless online collaboration.
To ensure the program's smooth execution, Dr. Alvincent Danganan, Ms. Jo Anne G. Cura, and students from Society Information Technology Education (SSITE) were actively involved in facilitating the activity. Their guidance and support contributed significantly to the success of the event, fostering an engaging and interactive learning environment for TUC members.

Through this seminar, TUC members gained valuable insights and hands-on experience in using online collaboration tools. These skills are expected to enhance their ability to communicate effectively, manage projects efficiently, and stay connected in a digital-first world. By embracing these tools, TUC can now better meet the challenges of modern cooperative management and continue to thrive in the digital age.

TSU secures local, international partnerships thru MOU

Maria Adelaida D. Calayag

Tarlac State University entered partnerships with Universitas Muhammadiyah Prof. Dr. Hamka (UHamka) and DepEd Tarlac City Schools Division, respectively, to foster international academic cooperations on Thursday morning (May 8, 2025) at the Alumni Center, Lucinda Campus.

TSU and the College of Education agreed to collaborate in terms in terms of faculty scholarships for master's and doctoral degrees, undergraduate student scholarships, collaborative education programs, English Language Proficiency Program (ELPP), credit-transfer program, laboratory/research facilities sharing, faculty and student exchange, internships, cultural experience programs, and joint seminars, conferences and meetings for education.

"As a public education institution, we are committed to providing quality, accessible, relevant, and inclusive education. The Tarlac City Schools Division fully embraces this partnership. We are committed to the pursuit of excellence in teaching and learning, research and innovation, cultural exchange and professional development," Dr. Ruth D. Jimenez, Chief Education Program Supervisor from DepEd Tarlac City Schools Division, said.
In a separate MOU, UHamka and TSU signed the partnership to empower faculty and staff through mobility, ELPP, research collaboration (conduct of international research conference), extension program, and cultural exchange.

The university will assign competent faculty members to provide basic English language lessons to foreign students. Moreover, foreign staff and students will also be immersed in the Filipino culture through cultural exchange program.

"We would like to encourage our esteemed partners to have dedication, collaboration, and that we will have mutual publication in reputable journals," Dr. Mulonyo said.

Meanwhile, Vice President for Academic Affairs Dr. Agnes M. Macaraeg shared the '3Bs,' believing in what TSU can do, believing in others, and believing in faith, as foundations of the local and international cooperation.

"In TSU, we value collaboration and partnership, and in valuing collaboration and partnership, [it is] simply because of our traits of '3Bs:' We believe that we could do our best for our students, who are our primary clientele. We believe in partnership, believing in others, because if we don't have partners, we cannot attain [the] SDGs," VP Macaraeg said.

TSU President Dr. Arnold E. Velasco expressed the university's commitment to uphold the partnership and share knowledge, expertise, and resources for academic enhancements and research.

Said partnerships are under the initiative of the College of Education's Master of Arts in Education major in English program.

In the afternoon, an international seminar on thesis and dissertation writing for graduate researchers was conducted with speakers from the partner institutions and Central Luzon State University.
